

ROOSEVELT HAS A FINAL WORD

Publishes Letter Relative To Haskell And The Creek Indian Lands In Oklahoma.

TAFT SPEAKING TODAY IN KANSAS

"Sunny Jim" Still Traveling Through Illinois, Hended East Toward Hoosierdom, To Reach There This Evening.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—President Roosevelt today gave out for publication a letter received by him from W. L. Burdett, of St. Louis, Mo., in which the writer declares Gov. Haskell's statement in his letters of Sept. 30 regarding the latter's connection with the Creek Indian lands is so imperfect that it is entirely misleading.

After quoting from Haskell's letter to Roosevelt in which the former declares there had been no delay in the town site suits in which Haskell was one of the defendants, except that occasioned by the court's deliberations, Mr. Burdett points out that he and the attorney for the Creek Nation have repeatedly sought to have the cases brought to a speedy trial but that Haskell and other defendants have not approved of those suggestions.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

D Bryan and Taft Will Continue Speaking—Tours Throughout the Middle West.

[INTELLIGENCE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—Politicians will continue to occupy the center of the stage during the coming week. The strenuous tour of Mr. Bryan through the middle west will be continued and Mr. Taft likewise has an itinerary mapped out for the week that will keep him exceedingly busy. Mr. Chaflin, the prohibition candidate, and Mr. Hagen, the choice of the Independence party for president, will cover wide stretches of territory in the six days beginning Monday.

Neither will there be any let-up of the energetic campaign on the part of the leading spell-binders of both the older parties. John W. Kern, the democratic vice-presidential candidate, will begin a week of speech-making in the South Atlantic states.

Governor Hughes, in behalf of the republican national campaign, will devote the entire week to the trans-Mississippi states, including Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas.

Senator Borodige of Indiana will start the campaign ball rolling for the republicans on the Pacific coast, speaking in Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco and Salt Lake City.

Eugene V. Debs, socialist candidate for president, plans to put in the greater part of the week in New York and New England.

The Georgia state election will take place Wednesday. Though the Independence party has displayed some activity there is no doubt of the election of the democratic state ticket headed by Joseph M. Brown as candidate for governor.

The temperance element are making heroic efforts to bring about a "dry" victory in the town elections which will be held in Connecticut on Monday.

Democrats of Rhode Island, who will meet in state convention Tuesday, will be forced to find a new candidate for governor. Governor James H. Higginson having positively declined to stand for re-election.

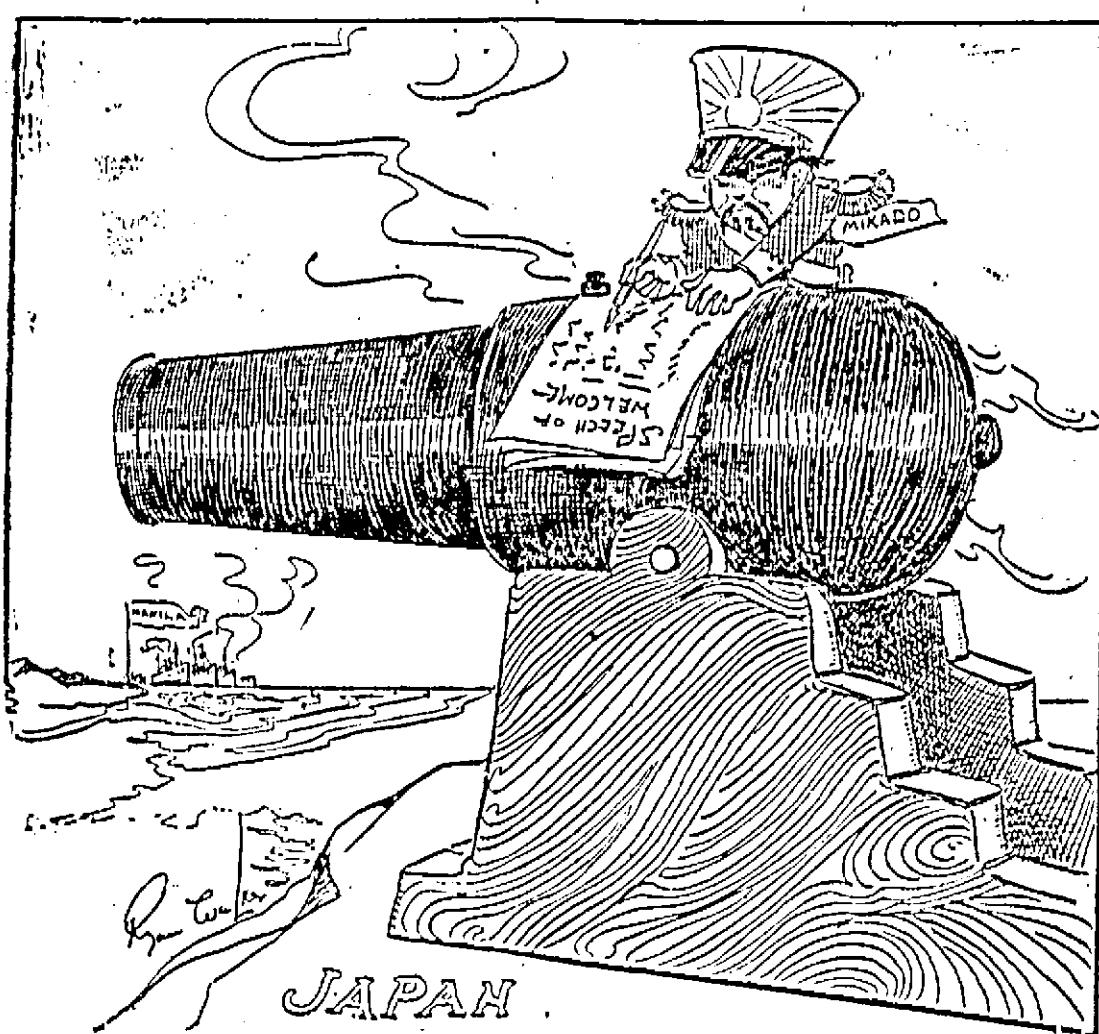

The Vermont legislature, which will assemble in biennial session on Wednesday, will elect a United States senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Rodfield Proctor, which continues until March 3, 1911.

Philadelphia will be the scene of notable festivities and pageants throughout the week in celebration of the city's 225th anniversary.

The United States supreme court will assemble Monday for the October term. The docket contains many important cases, including a number that concern the government and its attempt to enforce the laws against big corporations.

Stockholders of the Canadian Pacific railway will meet in Montreal Wednesday to consider an increase in the common stock by an amount not exceeding $50,000,000.

Important conventions of the week will include the Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress in San Francisco, the deep waterways convention in Chicago, the National Christian church conference in New Orleans, the second International conference of state and local taxation in Toronto, and the meeting of the National Association of Railroad Commissioners in Washington.

WELFARE OF SAILOR TO CELEBRATE ITS IS GENERAL TOPIC

Notable International Congress Will Gather in New York Next Week.

[INTELLIGENCE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 3.—The welfare of the sailor is the general topic that will be discussed in all its phases at a notable international conference to be held in this city during the coming week. The majority of the delegates to the conference are already in the city. They represent among them the principal ports of the world, including the large sea-going cities of America and Europe, Asia and Africa, Australia and the great chains of islands that dot the world's map.

The American Seamen's Friend Society is the organization that took the initiative in bringing about the conference. The British and Foreign Sailors' Society of London has given its active co-operation to the movement, and leading workers in the ports of Germany, France, Holland, Sweden and other countries will take prominent part.

The congress will endeavor to outline and propose remedies for the problems with which the great international body of seafarers is faced on every shore of the world today. The worldwide ways of the crime, the boarding master, the shipping agent and ship owner will be discussed by men who have made a lifelong study throughout the globe of those vital elements in the life of Jack-shore. The treatment of sailors in the navies of the nations as well as the merchant marine will come up for consideration. Efforts will also be made to perfect the organization by which the American Seamen's Friend Society is aiming to keep in touch with the shifting body of sailors through their forty-five stations all over the world.

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS IN BRIGHTON RACE

Six of Twelve Entering Automobiles Are Still in the Big Race.

[INTELLIGENCE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Brighton Beach Race-track, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Six of the twelve automobiles that started in the 21-hour race at Brighton Beach race-track last evening are still in the mud whirl today. The four leaders at the end of the tenth hour were in advance of the tenth previous mark from three to forty-three miles, but this was not accomplished however without a fearful demolition of cars, collisions and spills in which one man was seriously injured, several more or less hurt and a number of the machines wrecked.

EX-ARMY OFFICER'S TRIAL WILL BEGIN NEXT WEEK

Man Awarded Two Medals By Congress Accused Of Pawn Broker's Murder.

[INTELLIGENCE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Portland, Ore., Oct. 3.—Edward Hugh Martin, West Point graduate and ex-convict, member of a good family and drug fiend, hero to whom was awarded two medals by Congress, will be brought into court next week to stand trial for the sensational murder of the pawnbroker, Nathan Wolff, on May 1 last. The crime was one of the most brutal in the police annals of Portland. The accused man apparently is confident of acquittal. The police and the district attorney's office believe, on the other hand, that they have a sure case against Martin. Certainly important witnesses are said to have left Portland and it is anticipated that they may have been spirited away by Martin's relatives, who are wealthy.

The career of Martin reads like

from a yellow-back romance.

He is a son of a former New York contractor, 25 years of age, a graduate of West Point, armor expert at Sandy Hook, and a graduate of

Fordham College and the New York Law

School. At West Point he was a favorite with his classmates. He graduated in 1888 and saw active service in Porto Rico. He received medals for saving two comrades during the war with Spain. Upon his return to the United States his engagement was broken off by a second hand clothing

dealer as one he had sold to Martin.

The police investigation thereupon developed the fact that Martin had been missing from his home several days.

When he finally made his appearance

at his home it was evident that he had been on a protracted cocaine and white spike spree. He was without his shirt, and his head was cut in two places,

as if with an axe, and his hands and face also much scratched. He told fantastic tales of how he had spent the several days of his absence and recovered for his wounds in brutal ways. Since his imprisonment in July he has stoutly stuck to his story of innocence of the murder of Wolff. His father, apparently, has taken no interest in the case of his son, or at least it does not appear that he has provided for the defense in any way. The disappearance of the clothing dealer, Marie Drey, who sold the shirt to Martin, is believed to be without significance. He has been located in Chicago and probably will return if his evidence is deemed necessary.

It was after his dismissal from the army in 1900 that the most spectacular part of Martin's career began. He married Jessie McKee, better known as the "Footroom Queen." Within a year he was arrested for forgery and sentenced to an abrupt close in 1903 by the death of the "Footroom Queen." After his release from prison Martin remained around New York for a year or so and was several times arrested on suspicious of being implicated in burglaries

or of being implicated in murder.

NOT YET DECIDEDWORK ON ASSESSORS REPORTS IS NOW ALMOST COMPLETED.

124 AUTOS IN THE COUNTY

Acreage Grown and Bushels Harvested of Crops Are Not as Yet Compiled.

Rock county shows a big increase in the valuation of taxable property both real and personal over the amount of property taxable in May 1st 1907. The work of tabulating the reports made by the assessors has nearly been completed by the county clerk. The acreage of growing crops on last May 1st and the amount harvested in the year before has not yet been totaled as yet owing to the slowness with which some of the reports came in.

Amount of Increase.
On the first of last May the total value of all personal property in the county was $8,278,508 as compared with $7,897,159 for the May preceding. This is an increase of $281,349.

The value of real estate in the county has increased by $343,130. This year's report giving it as $40,015,951 in against $39,697,821 for last year.

124 Automobiles.
The number of automobiles has increased by 55 between May 1st, 1907 and May 1st 1908. In 1907 there were 76 automobiles in the county valued at a total of $4,190, with an average value of $581.44. This year the number was 124 with a total value of $49,415 and an average value of $398.76.

Watches Decrease.
The number of gold and silver watches owned by the residents of Rock County have on the other hand decreased. Whether any deduction be to be drawn from this is not decided. In May 1907 there were 36 gold and silver watches in the county valued at $1,195 and with an average value of $31.62. This year's report shows only 24 gold and silver watches owned by Rock County people with a total value of $930 and an average value of $38.75.

Horses Increase.
The number of horses has increased as well as the number of automobiles. In 1907 the total number was 16,174 with a total value of $1,082,977 and an average value of $67.01. The number has now increased to 16,758 with a total value of $1,150,180 and an average value of $67.15, an increase both in number and value.

Next cattle have increased 1,685 in number and $7,986 in value. Mules and asses have increased $1,915 in total value and also in number. Sheep have increased in number and $1,452 in value, while swine have dropped $68,176 in total value.

The number of platos this year was 1432 with a total value of $137,250 compared with a last year's total value of $132,715 for platos, organs and melodeons.

The grand total for bank stock, merchants and manufacturers stock and amount of money, accounts, credits, bonds, notes, and mortgages and other securities is $2,984,019 this year as against $2,080,637 for last year. CHAIRMAN MACK ATTACKS SHELDON

SAYS REPUBLICAN TREASURER IS IN WITH TRUSTS.

CROMWELL NEXT TARGET

His Corporation Connections to Be Assailed—Bryan Answers Statements About His Lack of Experience.

New York, Oct. 3.—Following an attack of Democratic National Chairman Mack Friday on the corporation affiliations of George H. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee, it was learned that the Democratic national committee is preparing to assail the corporation connections of William Nelson Cromwell, member of the advisory committee of the Republican national committee. Other members of the Republican advisory committee, it is understood, are also being investigated and representatives of the Democratic committee are carefully inquiring into the financial records of the Republican committee.

Mr. Mack charges that Mr. Sheldon is connected with no less than 17 financial companies, among them the Bethlehem Steel Company and the North American Company, capitalized for $30,000,000 and known as the "mystery of Wall street."

Bryan on Experience.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 3.—Speaking Friday night before the German Bryan club of Lincoln, William J. Bryan answered the criticisms which had been made of him by Gov. Hughes and other Republican leaders that his experience in public life was not sufficient to qualify him for the presidency.

Mr. Bryan asked his audience, "Why this new-born zeal for experience?" He cited Abraham Lincoln, Gen. Grant, James G. Blaine, Benjamin Harrison and Mr. McKinley as having had no particular public experience previous to their nominations, and as for Gov. Hughes, who he said had had special emphasis upon Mr. Taft's experience and qualifications, he declared he had but two years' experience as governor of the state of New York "and yet he thought three months ago that he was as well qualified for the presidency as Mr. Taft."

No Danger in Appointments.

Taking up the charge that he may not make who appointments if elected to the presidency, Mr. Bryan indicated that the argument should not be made by a Republican because he said for the next two years at least, the senate would be Republicans and would pass upon all important appointments, thus sharing in the responsibility if any objectionable men become officials. "I am satisfied," he said, "that I can find such excellent men that even a Republican senate will not dare to reject them."

"The Republican argument that we hear much of now is that Democratic success will disturb business," Mr. Bryan said later. "Our contention is that Democratic success will restore prosperity. How can the Republicans threaten us with a panic, when a panic came under the present president and is still upon us?" In some respects, it is the most acute panic that we have ever had, and there was less in natural conditions to justify it. That this panic still continues can be proven in many ways: First, by a number of men out of employment—men anxious to work who are not able to find work to do. An effort has been made among those securing special privileges from the government to answer this present argument by starting up some of their mills in these closing days, but the people can hardly be fooled by such transparent tricks."

is very careful about her church. She soaks it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her church is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul oil which is put into it?

The oil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the church—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blisters, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant disengagements.

The names known to medical science, and the names of the various symptoms of biliousness, and the remedies for them, are not to be found in any of the medical books or treatises, and the names of all the several schools of medical men have been studied and have not been found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

MORE GOULD CASE BRIBERY

HOTEL EMPLOYEE TOLD PRIEST OF BEING OFFERED $2,000.

Wife Submits Affidavit Defending Herself Against Charge of Drunkenness Made by Husband.

New York, Oct. 3.—That $2,000 had been offered an employee of the Hotel St. Regis to give false testimony against Mrs. Howard Gould was the substance of an affidavit, purporting to have been made by Rev. Father Joseph G. Murray, which was presented to Justice Glogerich in the supreme court Friday.

The case came up before the justice on a motion to strike out certain allegations in Mrs. Gould's complaint in her suit for a separation from her husband, as scandalous and irrelevant. Mrs. Gould's counsel opposed the motion and presented several affidavits in which it was charged that certain witnesses had been hired to testify in favor of Mr. Gould. The affidavit of Father Murray was one of the papers presented. It declares that Michael H. Duddy had told the priest that while he was employed at the Hotel St. Regis where Mrs. Gould lived, a detective went to him with the proposition that he "give a proper report of Mrs. Gould's comings and goings at the hotel, the amount of wine she drank and the names of her visitors, notably those of them that were men."

Another affidavit, made by Maurice Molloy, alleges that Molloy was under contract, while custodian of Castle Gould at Port Washington, to treat Mrs. Gould in a contemptuous fashion. The lawyer for Mrs. Gould recited how it was alleged that Molloy had gone into the house, sat on divans and puffed cigarette smoke in Mrs. Gould's face when she ordered him out of the Democratic convention departed.

Handles Best Sugar Industry.

Mr. Taft delivered the principal speech of the evening. His subjects ranged widely over the various issues of the campaign. He paid his respects to Bryan many times and received encouragement from the audience in so doing. One new feature of his address was in handling the subject of the best sugar industry, which he took as an illustration of Democratic proposals towards the trusts. Best sugar, he said, was a trust-made article. The Democrats proposed to put all such articles on the free list just to punish the trusts. This would, he maintained, not only punish the trusts, but would also punish many innocent farmers and producers as well.

On Mr. Taft's trip in the west Friday his language on the labor question was decidedly vigorous and positive, he said:

"This thing of Mr. Gompers having the labor vote in his power and laboring men believing the lie he tells is something that I complain of."

Labor men ought to look at the record and see which party has done things in their behalf. If you will examine the legislative record you will find not a line in the federal statute books that was put there by the Democratic party. Not a line was put there by Mr. Bryan when he was twice a member of congress in Grover Cleveland's administration, nor did he attempt to have any passed."

Sherman Talks at Moline.

Moline, Ill., Sept. 3.—Over 5,000 employees of the plow works listened to James S. Sherman, who addressed them Friday on the labor issues of the campaign. His points were loudly cheered by the men, and Mr. Sherman was highly pleased at the cordial reception accorded him. Immediately after his address the candidate was taken back to Rock Island, where his car was waiting to convey him to Sherman, where he addressed a meeting at night.

Root Prods the Committee?

New York, Oct. 3.—When it was reported here Friday that Secretary of State Elihu Root had visited Republican national headquarters here last Wednesday and made inquiries regarding the working of the various departments under the national committee, a flutter of excitement was caused in political circles. The report went forth that Mr. Root had been sent by President Roosevelt, because the president was not satisfied with the manner in which the campaign was being conducted. Mr. Root was credited with having returned to Washington and there expressed the conclusion that National Treasurer Sheldon was to blame for the lagging in the campaign, he having left to Chairman Hitchcock much of the business that should have been disposed of by the treasurer's department.

No confirmation of the reported purpose of Secretary Root's visit to national headquarters could be obtained.

Discusses Best Sugar and Trust Prosecution—Sherman at Moline Plow Works—Reported Complain About Sheldon.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 3.—In the same building—the Denver Auditorium—in which William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency last July, William H. Taft Friday night addressed a tremendous throng setting forth reasons and arguments why the Nebraskan should not be elected.

Mr. Taft's entry into Denver was under most inspiring political conditions. His stay in the city was but for three hours and every preliminary to the big street parade and its attending spectacular features had been most carefully arranged, so that when the Taft special pulled into the Union station the town had a particularly bright red glare. The streets were profusely illuminated and had not been so densely populated since the Democratic convention departed.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Who is it known just what to do
When things go wrong and life looks blue?Who is it sings amid her care
And smiles when shadows bring despair?Who is it through her changeless day
Unchanging goes her faithful way?Who is it keeps the light, the home, Still sweet how'er her loved may beau?

Mother!

Who is it wins the crown she wears
When love lays wreathes upon gray
hairs?And joy on wings of softest gleam Leads home her little ships of dream?Who is it, though she goes not down
Each day to business in the town,
Still lifts her burden, tolls her share,
Fulfils her trust and meets her fate?

Mother!

Ah, mock her not who rules unseen
Of garb eye—a homespun queen,
A sovereign, mold, of greater worth,
And builded in the hearts of time

The altar fires of faith subline—

Mother!

—Baltimore Sun.

Not "mama" nor "ma," but good old-fashioned "mother," the magic word which brings comfort to the heart of childhood, and God-like reverence to mature life. The first home, established outside the garden wall which enclosed the scene of the first transgression, was a humble home, and the two boys, whose history is recorded, enjoyed the love of a mother who devoted all her time and energies to making the home happy.

She was the first representative of a type of womanhood which the world has long since learned to respect and revere. A type whose lustre does not diminish with age, and whose glow in each succeeding generation is filled with honor by an army of gentle-women performing the highest mission of womanhood.There is no blare of trumpets, nor proclamations of intent, about her work, and yet it is so important, and usually so faithfully performed that it enters into the warp and woof of the nation's life as an element of strength and endurance.The mother contributes to the child more than family resemblance. She is the close companion, from the time that chubby hands reach up from the cradle for a caress, on through the years of childhood, until she stands at the threshold with a tear in her eye and a Godspeed on her lips when the boy or girl are ready to leave the little circle which has sheltered them, and cross the line on the road to destiny.

Then she follows them with messages of love and good cheer, and not until wrinkled, worn-out hands
are folded in the casket are the children forgotten.When the six o'clock car stopped at the depot to take on passengers, last night, a mother with four little children climbed aboard. The oldest not more than 7, and the youngest a bright eyed round-faced baby, comprised a little group which would have made glad the heart of our domestic president.Among the passengers were some elderly matrons who had been spending the afternoon at the golf grounds.
As they watched the young mother,
so busy in care and solicitude for the little flock, memory harked back to other years when the boys and girls filled the home with life and sunshine.Finally one of them said in tender voice, with a suggestion of moisture in her eyes, "Never mind the children; we've all been there," and another added, "Yes, and I wish we were back to the old days."This little drama suggests the thought that a mother's heart never grows old. These old-time mothers were trudging down the slope alone,
the little mound in the silent city on the hill marked the resting-place of husband and father and the children were scattered far and wide, but the spring of life was fresh and bubbling over with motherly pride and solicitude.It is sometimes said that the love of a mother is like the love of God; so it is, but yet more tangible, for eyes that speak and hands which perform are so real that the mysteries of the supernatural never cloud the vision.The boy may drift away so far from his moorings as to forget that there is a God, but so long as the heart continues to beat, he knows that a mother's love is following him, and a mother's greeting waiting for him at the old home. This is a type of divine love in human form, so real and so loyal that the man who fails to recognize it, is difficult to find.But every complete home has somewhere about the premises another important personage. The baby is taught to kiss the name of "papa," while the growing boy calls him "dad," and when he goes away to school, and applies to a cent of down, in the upper lip, refers to him as "the old man."This personage is no less than the head of the household, and in all well-regulated families the children are taught to call him "father," and with the little develops respect which perpetuates the name and develops love and reverence.Unlike the mother, he is off in the morning before the family is fairly awake, and back at night weary with the struggles of the day, and not always good company, yet nevertheless a factor in the home.The mother is a necessity while the father is a great convenience. The mother is approachable, because always within easy call, while the father is more or less of a stranger.Two brothers were called home not long ago by the death of their father,
from whom they had been separated for 25 years. The old gentleman was a sturdy character, possessing a general disposition which commanded the love and respect of all who knew him.The whole town turned out to represent his memory, and business was suspended for an hour, while the last services were being conducted.The brothers were wonderfully impressed with these tokens of regard, and one of them said to the other, "Charley, we never knew our father."That was an honest confession, which could truthfully be made in many homes.This lack of knowledge is sometimes the fault of the father, for some-men never get near enough their children to know them, and the sensitive boy or girl is not slow to discover that the only avenue of approach is through the mother, and so they delegate to her the mission of reaching the head of the household with wants and complaints.But more frequently the trouble is with the children, who fail to appreciate the burden, and who make no effort to lighten it. An anonymous writer who understands the situation
recently expressed this sentiment, which is true to life:"Nobody knows of the money it takes
To keep the home together;
Nobody knows the debt it makes;
Nobody knows—but father;
Nobody's told that the boy needs shoes
And girls a hat with a feather;
Nobody else old clothes must choose;
Nobody—only father."Nobody bears that the coal and wood
And flour are out together;
Nobody else must make them good;
Nobody—only father;
Nobody's hand in the pocket goes
So often, wondering whether There's any end to the wants of those Dependent—only on father.""Nobody thinks whence the money will come
To pay the bills that gather;
Nobody feels so blue and grieved,
Nobody—only father;
Nobody tries so hard to try
Up something for bad weather."And runs behind, do what he may, Nobody—only father."The ideal home is the home where father, mother and children work together for mutual helpfulness and happiness. The home where the mother is the inspiration, and the father the comrade and counsellor. From such homes come the best type of citizenship.Make it brief,
If you have a song to sing,
That will make the welkin ring,
Be sure of just one thing,
Make it brief.If you have a tale to tell,
And you wish to tell it well,
Make your reputation swell,
Make it brief.If a sermon you would preach,
And a timely lesson teach,
That both far and wide will reach,
Make it brief.Just abbreviate your talk,
At long-winded discourse bark,
And you'll win out in a walk,
Make it brief.

ONCE HE WAS A MAN.
This is an editorial about one who used to be a man.

He is now a millionaire.

This man began life business life without a dollar. If, as some one has said, "a man is worth only $2 a day from his shoulders down and $20 a day from his shoulders up," this man
at first was worth only $2 a day.
After awhile he began to use his head to work from his shoulders up.As soon as he got to working from his shoulders up he began to work others. He learned how to make money grow money. He was smart enough presently to corner some special privileges that the man who works with his hands never gets. Then he began to get rich quick. In a little while he was a millionaire.

And there was the man's wife.

When he was just beginning to do things with his head he married a fine girl, who, like himself, was poor. She worked hard, denying herself. She lived and saved and lost her heart.What mattered it? They were getting rich. They would enjoy their prosperity together.

Then this man became a thing.

He looked into the face of his wife and saw that her beauty had faded.She did her best to please him, but the old charm was gone. And one day this creature in mail garments happened to bump into a girl who was artful, fascinating and pretty to boot.She looked at him and smiled. He was hypnotized and finally undone.
He would have this woman. He would buy her. He was rich enough to do so.
And thus the plot thickened.The male creature sent his lawyers to the old wife, who had literally given herself to him body and soul, and ordered her much money. The lawyers told the wife her husband had no further use for her. Then came the divorce suit and the scandal. Finally the millionaire went away with the pretty woman. And almost every day the old wife cried.Who is this fellow with much money and no soul?Turn to the commercial reports of Dun or Bradstreet and read over the list of millionaires quoted there. If you will pick out some one at random
you will scarcely fail to find his name and address.Cause of the Break.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM OPEN SEASON TODAY

Met Lake Mills Players on the Gridiron This Afternoon at Athletic Park.

This afternoon the opening football game for 1908 by the High School was played at the Athletic Park with the team from Lake Mills school. The Lake Mills team and the locals were about evenly matched as to weight, but the swiftness and speed of each team was unknown. It was planned by the local captain to test all of the players in the positions for which they are trying. The Captain for the Janeville boys was selected at a special meeting today; Ralph Tippet was chosen.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of rooters for the Janeville team were in attendance to help the boys win the game. Lake Mills brought down fifteen to do their yodeling for them.

The game started at 3:30 o'clock with twenty minutes for the first half and fifteen for the last half. The time of the two teams was as follows:

OBITUARY.

Charles Sheldon

Charles Sheldon, son of James Sheldon who conducts the Second Ward grocery store, passed away shortly after midnight. He had been ill for over a year and all the efforts of a devoted father and mother and the best medical skill obtainable proved unavailing. Deceased would have been twenty-one years of age on October 22. As a student in the high school he enjoyed the esteem of all of his associates. Besides his parents, he leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Henry W. Sheldon, from whose home the funeral will be held Monday afternoon at half-past one o'clock.

NEW THEATRE, THE MAJESTIC.

With the opening show tonight the Majestic Theatre begins its career in Janeville. It is to be another Five Cent Theatre, with a highly perfected machine for showing the pictures. The old Poyer store has been entirely remodeled and makes an excellent theatre. The walls are beautifully decorated in blue and red with green panel effects, and fitted with shaded electric lights which are to be kept burning during the entire show. They are so arranged as not to interfere with the pictures at all, and still light up the boxes and seats, which is a considerable improvement. In this line, the machine is a Motograph and is one that can be operated slowly so that the pictures will move slower and seem more life-like. The seats are mahogany finish opera chairs with reclining backs and there are 150 in all. The front of the theatre has been fitted up beautifully, but Mr. Nick Pappas, the manager, says that the front door will not arrive in time so that curtains will be used for the first few days. To attract attention and to give the theatre a semblance of life and amusement, the largest size Columbia Phonograph has been purchased and will tell its own story.

The program for tonight is "Poor Knight and Duke's Daughter," a beautiful romance of Knighthood days, also "Heavy Seas," showing life on the ocean.

The BRASS BOWL

By LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

(Copyright 1908, The Doubleday-Merrill Co.)

There remained two more floors, two final flights. A little hopelessly he swung up the first. And as he did so the blackness above him was riven by a tongue of fire, and a bullet, singeing past his head, flattened itself with a vicious spit against the marble dado of the walls. Instinctively he pulled up, finger closing upon the trigger of his revolver; flash and report followed the motion, and a panel of ribbed glass in a door overhead was splintered and fell in clashing fragments, all but drowning the sound of feet in flight upon the upper staircase.

A claxon of caution, warning, encouragement, and advice broke out from the police below. But Maitland hardly heard. Already he was again in pursuit, taking the steps two at a leap. With a hand upon the newel-post he swung round on the twenty-third floor, and hurled himself toward the foot of the last flight. A crash like a rifle-shot rang out above, and for a second he fancied that Anstey had fired again and with a heavier weapon. But immediately he realized that the noise had been only the shattering of the door at the head of the stairs—the door whose glazed panel loomed above him, shedding a diffused light to guide his footsteps. Its opaque surface lettered with the name of the door of the office whose threshold he had so often crossed to meet a friend and adviser. It was with a shock that he comprehended this, thrill of wonder. He had all but forgotten that Bannerman owned an office in the building, in the rush, the urge of this wild adventure. Strange that Anstey should have chosen it for the scene of his last stand—strange, and strangely fatal for the criminal!

HENRY M. BANNERMAN,

Attorney, Counselor-at-Law,

For Maitland, know that from this eve there was no means of escape, other than by the stairs.

Well and good! Then they had the man, and—

The thought was flashing in his mind, illuminating the darkness of his despair with the hope that he would be able to force a word as to the girl's whereabouts from the burglar ere the police arrived; Maitland's foot was on the upper step, when a scream of mortal terror—her voice!—broke from within. Half madened, he threw himself bodily against the door, twisting the knob with frantic fingers that slipped upon its immovable polished surface.

The bolt had been shot, he was barred out, and, with only the width of a man's hand between them, the girl was in deadly peril and terror.

A sob that was at the same time an oath rose to his lips. Dashed, helpless, he fell back, tears of rage starting to his eyes, her accents ringing in his ears as terribly pitiful as the cry of a lost and wandering soul.

"God!" he mumbled incoherently, and in desperation sent the pistol-butt crashing against the glass. It was, tough, stubborn; the first blow scarcely flawed it. As he redoubled his efforts to shatter it, Hickey's hand shot over his shoulder to aid him. . . . And with startling abruptness the barrier seemed to dissolve before their eyes, the glass falling inward with a shrill clatter.

Quaintly, with the effect of a picture cast by a cinematograph in a darkened auditorium, there leaped upon Maitland's field of vision the picture of Anstey standing at bay, face drawn and tense, lips curled back, eyes lurid with defiance and despair. He stood, poised upon the balls of his feet, like a cat ready to spring, in the doorway between the inner and outer offices. He raised his hand with an indescribably swift and vicious gesture, and a flame seemed to blaze out from his finger-tips.

Hickey covered him, "Surround!" he roared. And fired again. For Anstey had gone to his knees, reaching for the revolver with his uninjured arm.

The detective's second bullet winged through the doorway, over Anstey's head, and hit through the outer window. As Anstey, with a tremendous strain upon his failing powers, struggled to his feet, Maitland, catching the murderous gleam in the man's eye, pulled trigger. The burglar's unerring shot expended itself as harmlessly as Maitland's. Both went wide of their marks.

And of a sudden Hickey had drawn the bolt, and the body of police blinded forced Maitland pell-mell into the room. As he recovered he saw Hickey hurling himself at the criminal's throat—one second too late. True to his pledge never to be taken alive, Anstey had sent his last bullet crashing through his own skull.

A cry of horror and consternation forced itself from Maitland's throat. The police halted, each where he stood, transfixed. Anstey drew himself up, with a trace of pride in his pose; snuffed horribly; put a hand mechanically to his lips And died.

Hickey caught him as he fell, but Maitland, unheeding, leaped over the body that had in life resembled him so fatally, and entered Bannerman's private office.

The gray girl lay at length in a corner of the room, shrouded from observation by one of the drapes. Her eyes were closed, her cheeks were the hue of death; the pale young head was pillowéd on one white and rounded forearm, in an attitude of natural rest, and the burnished hair, its heavy coils slipping from their fastenings, tumbled over her head and shoulders in shimmering glory, like a splash of living flame.

With a low and bitter cry the young men dropped to his knees by her side. In the outer office the police were assembled in excited conclave, blind to all save the momentous fact of Anstey's last, supremely consolatene, act. For the time, Maitland was utterly alone with his great and aching loneliness.

After a little while timidly he touched her hand. It lay upturned, white slender fingers like exotic petals curling in upon the rosy hollow of her palm. And it was soft and warm.

He lifted it tenderly in both his own, and so held it for a space, broadening, marveling at its perfection. And inevitably he bent and touched it with his lips, as if their ardent contact should have been played off.

Safe-Blowers Get About $2,500 from Institution at Doweese.

"You will have to stay here a few minutes," he told her, "until—er—"

"I understand," she told him in a choking tone.

Hickey awkwardly handed her the glass. She slipped mechanically.

"I have a cab below," continued Maitland. "And I'll try to arrange it so that we can get out of the building without having to force a way through the crowd."

She thanked him with a glance.

"There's th' freight elevator," suggested Hickey, helpfully.

"Thank you . . . Is there anything I can do for you, anything you wish?" continued Maitland to the girl, standing between her and the detective.

She lifted her face to his and shook her head, very gently. "No," she known.

He stood, poised upon the balls of his feet, like a cat ready to spring, in the doorway between the inner and outer offices. He raised his hand with an indescribably swift and vicious gesture, and a flame seemed to blaze out from his finger-tips.

"Dearest," he said gently, "Please don't run away from me again."

breathed through trembling lips, "You—you've been—" but there was a sob in her throat, and she hung her head again.

"Not a word," ordered Maitland. "Sit here for a few minutes, if you can, drink the water and—fix up your hat, you know," (damn Hickey! Why the devil did the fellow insist on hanging round so!) "and I will go and make arrangements."

"Thank you," whispered the small voice shakily.

Maitland hesitated a moment, then turned upon Hickey in sudden exasperation. His manner was enough; even the obtuse detective could not ignore it. Maitland had no need to speak.

"I'm sorry, sir," he said, standing his ground manfully but with a trace more of respect in his manner than had therefore characterized it, "but there's an gentleman—uh—your fr—Hammerman's outside 'd want to speak to—"

"Tell him to—"

"Excuse me, he says he's gotta see you. If you don't come out, he'll come after you, I thought you'd rather—"

"That's kindly thought of," Maitland relented. "I'll be there in a minute," he added, meaningly.

Origins of Plants.

The origin of the egg plant is in India, that of the broad bean be unknown, as also that of the lentil, the pea, chickpea and haricot. The last named appears to have come originally from America.

LEAGUE BASEBALL RESULTS.

As the result of a double victory over St. Louis Friday Pittsburg was tied with New York for first place in the National League pennant race. Chicago defeated Cincinnati and was only two points behind the leaders.

In the American League Detroit and Cleveland drew away from Chicago, the last-mentioned team being defeated by Cleveland in a game in which Jose not only shut them out without a hit, but didn't allow a man to reach first base.

After a week of deliberation, President Harry C. Pulliam of the National League of Baseball clubs Friday night rendered a decision on the protested New York-Chicago game played at New York September 22. President Pulliam rules that the game was a tie and that the Chicago club had no claim in equity for a forfeited game on September 24, when Chicago holds that the tie game of the day previous should have been played off.

Lythoid Roofing Stands This Test of Quality Which No Other Roofing Can

You will need to roof your buildings some day. Read these statements and form your opinions now:

A roofing will remain waterproof so long as the surface coating and saturation are not evaporated by the absorbing heat of the sun. (It is this element that destroys roofs and not the rain and cold, as one might think.) That a roof is pliable when new is no indication of its quality—some of the most pliable new roofs will get brittle the quickest when exposed, being loaded with cheap saturation.

Cheap materials will not stand the sun while high-grade products will. The advertising manufacturers will not guarantee their roofs unless frequently coated—they had better use first-class materials and do less advertising. Recoating costs money.

When anyone says "guaranteed" see it before you bite—the provisions for re-coating. Any roofing will be waterproof if you paint it frequently. Lythoid is guaranteed without any re-coating whatsoever. To make a comparative test, attach samples of roofings, including Lythoid to a board and expose to the sun and weather for a few months, observing how they rapidly dry out while Lythoid remains pliable and hardly discolored.

To make an accelerated test, attach samples to a board and hold close to a heated stove. The result will be self-explanatory.

Similarly in appearance is no guide to quality.

Washington, Oct. 3.—As the result of a report made by the civil service commission, President Roosevelt late Friday removed Lincoln Avery, collector of the port at Port Huron, Mich., and also directed the removal of Charles H. The civil service committee found proof of charges of serious violations of the rules and regulations in regard to campaign assessments, which also involved, on the part of Special Agent Dalley, "pernicious activity in politics."

Fads and Fancies of Fashion

Stripes will have an autumn vogue.

Wings and quills are prominent in millinery.

It is a time of great elegance in tailored effects.

Skirts are draped after the fashion of Greek tunics.

Navy blue is the most popular color in walking suits.

For dressy skirts black velveteen retains its popularity.

Now broadcloth evening caps are striking in their suggestion of the military caps of the directoire period.

Rain and motor coats come in both wide and narrow striped rubberized silk.

Soft, clinging, lustrous satin are great favorite of the hour. Undoubtedly it is to be a satin season.

Many of the silk and satin hats are blocked, the material being stuck on like paper on the wall.

Net waistlets will be popular with semi-dressy suits for matinees and calling.

Many of the new suits are in stripes, soft shades beautifully blended, $18.75 to $37.50.

Whatever fashion demands in millinery can be found here.

We call particular attention to the tailoring of our garments, $15 to $60.

Some of the new models have been much admired.

And no color is so satisfactory to the wearer.

One special number made of Altman velveteen is priced at $12.50.

One of chiffon broadcloth, satin lined throughout, is $25.

Blue and black, brown and black, special at $12.50.

A number of handsome satin gowns are shown, both in colors and black, $20 to $75.

Not so with the trimmings, however. Ours are put on by artists.

The new models are all here. Mostly long sleeves, $3.00 and $5.75, are special prices.
